THE FUTURE OF FIRST NATIONS EDUCATION

Forum on Post-Secondary Education & Labour Market Attachment

First Nations University of Canada, Regina, Saskatchewan

February 19-21, 2013

FSIN Chief Simon Bird is pleased to announce the upcoming Education forum titled, "The Future of First Nations Education".

The forum is scheduled for February 19–21, 2013 and will be held at the First Nations University of Canada in Regina and is the first of three education forums that are being planned over the next two years.

The Future of First Nations Education forum will examine the potential of, and set strategic directions for, Post-Secondary education, and labour market attachments in the Saskatchewan region.

This forum will be focused on the successes, challenges and opportunities in Post-Secondary Education and employment and training for First Nations people. It will explore how best stakeholders can insure our post-secondary graduates are meeting the needs of industry and gaining and retaining employment.

As the Federal Government is focused on improving the Canadian economy, the timing of the forum couldn't be better, says Chief Simon Bird.

This is an invitation to be recognized as an organization that supports Saskatchewan First Nations communities and gain valuable exposure among First Nations leadership and First Nation institutions.

You have an opportunity to network with key stakeholders and decision makers and deliver targeted messages depending on your level of sponsorship.
