

First Nations Language Keepers Gathering
Entertainment
Terri-Anne Strongarm

Title: Terri-Anne Strongarm

Entertainer: Terri-Anne Strongarm

Biography: Terri-Anne Strongarm, Plains Cree from the Starblanket Cree Nation, is a well-established music entertainer. The "little girl with the big voice" has been singing since the age of four and is the lead singer in her father's band "Highway Express", and under her own name, traveling throughout Canada and the US. Terri-Anne has a fondness for classic country, having grown up learning to play beside her fiddling father. She has opened for artists including Charlie Major, Kalan Porter, Shane Yellowbird, The Road Hammers, Doug Kershaw, Crystal Shawanda and Patty Loveless.